Dear Mr. Palson:

When my wife and I decided to vinyl-side our house, we had a little bit of trepidation in that we were not fully prepared for the installation procedure as we are novice homeowners. However, we were determined to do this on our own. We were concerned with the hanging of the siding on the house – potential buckling of the siding if not properly installed as it was explained to us.

However, when we discovered the Glide-Lock system this took all the worry and guess work out of the equation. We no longer needed to worry if the siding was too tight or too loose and we knew that we would be 100% accurate each and every time.

Additionally, the Glide-Lock system allows the siding to move with the temperature changes and that took the worry out of potential buckling. Your Glide-Lock pieces were fast, efficient and easy to use and we have since recommended them to our other friends and family who are in the process of researching for their own renovations.

Thank you so much for a wonderful product!

Sincerely,

Mr. & Mrs. Ivan Skulevold
